LIPTON CANNOT COME TO HAWAII

Sir Thomas Lipton will not come to Hawaii during his present trip to the Pacific Coast. This is positive information, coming from the Irish sportsman himself, in a cable to Commodore Clarence Macfarlane, received yesterday.

Commodore Macfarlane, who might properly be called the father of the trans-Pacific yacht race, is a personal friend of Sir Thomas, and when the news came that the latter was to be the moving spirit in a yachting feature of 1915, which might include a race from San Francisco to Hawaii, he sent a cable inviting Sir Thomas to come to Honolulu and look the situation over. It read as follows:

"Sir Thomas Lipton, San Francisco. 'Aloha from Hawaii. Cordially invite you as my guest to visit Honolulu, home of trans-Pacific race."

"Commodore Macfarlane, 'Yacht La Palma.'"

Yesterday the following answer was line:

"Commodore Macfarlane, Yacht La Palma, Honolulu. 'Kind telegram received. Nothing would have given me greater pleasure, but regret lack of time prevents."

PRESIDENT-ELECT MAY KEEP SECRETARY FISHER IN OFFICE

Local Republicans are highly elated by the persistent rumor on the mainland that President-elect Wilson is likely to retain Walter L. Fisher as Secretary of the Interior. Even though Fisher may not be the new Executive's ultimate choice, friends of the local administration argue that the fact he is considered would seem to indicate Wilson's leanings, and to his approval of the policies Mr. Fisher has been establishing in the Department during his two years in office.

They can see in this inclination on the part of the President-elect to defer to the Territorial policy of the present administration so that, even if Mr. Fisher is not again chosen for the place his successor will be expected to continue the policies he has advocated. This would mean that the work of Governor Frear be approved and his retention desired.

"During his brief term Secretary Fisher has won an enviable reputation," said one Republican today, "and he is reappointed by the new president it will be because he recognizes Fisher's value as a practical official, to whom the national ideal is primary, and political party is of only secondary importance. He will realize that Mr. Fisher would reflect credit on the Democratic administration, and the latter accepts the reappointment it undoubtedly will be, not for the salary it offers, but the policies which he has framed and desires to put into active operation."

"To a man of Fisher's ability the salary paid his office is no inducement. But if he accepts it, then the territories and the interior department certainly are to be congratulated. He has in mind a policy for Hawaii, and he undoubtedly would like to remain in office to put it into use with time to watch its effect. His policies with regard to Alaska and to the Indians me visiting Honolulu this trip.

"Thomas Lipton." "To have had Sir Thomas Lipton make the ocean trip from San Francisco to Hawaii, and see for himself what sort of a run it is, would have been one of the best guarantees that he would try and promote a trans-Pacific race in connection with the international races which he is planning for San Francisco," said Commodore Macfarlane this morning. "If he had come here, I'm sure he would have been greatly interested in the idea. As it is, I think that there is a good chance of the race going through in 1915, for Sir Thomas is not the sort of yachtsman who believes in the purely racing machine, of the skimming dish type. He wants to race real yachts, and I think that the sort of boat which he designs and builds for the proposed race at San Francisco, would be well able to make the run across to Honolulu. Especially as his own boat, and those which might be built in Europe, will beat thoroughly testing out the capacity of every entry."

Incidentally, Commodore Macfarlane has ordered a 52 h. p. engine for La Palma, and will have her as an auxiliary cruiser by next season.

the mainland have been in force for some time, and so far have received hearty endorsement from the people affected directly. There is no doubt his Hawaiian plans would prove just as satisfactory to the citizens of this Territory."

In any event, it is regarded here as an excellent foreshadowing of events that Fisher's name should even be considered, for that is construed to mean that the Democrats close to the president-elect have approved his work to a large extent, and that they expect the president to accept his recommendations.

NEW CHINESE CONSUL TO SUCCEED MR. CHEN

According to recent reports received by the local Chinese colony, the present consul for Honolulu, Chen Ching Ho is soon to be superseded, and his successor, it is stated, will be a diplomat trained in foreign languages and the duties of his office, and will be given the rank of consul general.

It appears that the present Chinese consul is an upholder of the late Manchurian Empire, and the younger Chinese blood of the city are anxious to have a consul here who is more in touch with modern conditions and Republican form of government. It has been charged that Chen Ching Ho has been very slow in his actions against certain matters that have come up before the consul that have required immediate attention, one instance being the case of Wong Fook, the Chinese who was killed on the Korea some time ago. It is alleged that the possessions of the dead man were turned over to the consul on his demand, but he appeared to take no further interest in the case.

to cause any raise of price in that product. However, should the war continue for six months or more, the price would probably go up. Germany, Austria and Russia are great sugar-beet producing countries, and should the crops be left to go to waste in the fields through the absence of the laborers who harvest them, there would no doubt be a greater demand for cane sugar, and especially from the Hawaiian Islands.

The beet crops in the three countries mentioned, will be harvested during the middle of next month, and another crop will not be planted until next April, and between the time when the crop is taken off and when a new one is planted would give these nations plenty of time for their warfare, which would probably not last that long. Besides, the greater part of the labor in the fields is done by the women and should the men be called away to a war like the one which is rumored, these crops would still be gotten off and a new one planted. It is therefore doubtful as to whether the war would affect the sugar interests.

"If Japan becomes involved it will be a very serious thing for Hawaii. Large numbers of Japanese would go home and it would be impossible to replace them on the plantations," said Harry Armitage.

G. H. Buttolph believes that "a European war would help the sugar market—there are no two sides about that. However, I have just had a curious theory stated to me by a client. He figures that a war would cause a large increase of exports of foodstuffs from the United States. This would increase the cost of living in the United States, with the result that there would be an irrefragable demand for free sugar."

J. S. McCandless said: "Your question is very sudden, as the girl said. I suppose war would affect the European labor market and thus prevent us getting any more labor from that quarter. I found in California the great trouble was labor. The whole world is looking for labor—not only Hawaii. So far as the price of sugar is concerned, I rather think war would curtail the consumption of sugar."

Cecil Brown said that he believed "a European war will not hurt us any. It would certainly make the market better for our sugar, owing to the withdrawal of labor from the European beet sugar industry. Of course, it would ditch our European immigration scheme. If Japan got into a war it would affect our sugar industry more. Two-thirds of the Japanese labor on our plantations belongs to the Japanese army reserve corps."

"I have really not given much thought to the matter. One thing that occurs to me is that England is one of the largest sugar consuming countries," said J. F. Hackfeld. "She obtains a great portion of her supplies from Continental Europe, and in the event of war that source would be stopped. Then England would be obliged to draw upon Cuba and Java for her sugar supply."

"We would not get any European immigrants in the event of war in Europe. I don't think, however, that there is going to be a general war. Wars nowadays are of pretty short duration, anyway," said Richard Iverson.

elect seem to entertain the same view. It is almost apparent that an extraordinary session is inevitable, as any other course would invite such adverse criticism as to seriously endanger the success of President Wilson's administration.

Bryan is Busy
William J. Bryan has been here for a week. He favors legislation by which the regular session of Congress shall follow March 4, thus making extraordinary assemblages unnecessary. He urges the passage of pending bills which would make the change effective. He refuses to discuss the Cabinet formation, or the possibility that he will be offered and accept the Secretaryship of State.

The reactionary and Progressive Democrats in the Senate are lining up for a vicious fight for control of that body when the new Congress comes into existence. The Reactionaries have a small majority as the situation stands, but a long and bitter wrangle appears certain. The storm center will rage about the selection of Senator Simmons as Chairman of the Finance Committee. He is charged with being a Protection Democrat and almost as much wedded to the high tariff duties as was Senator Aldrich when he held that position. The Progressives urged the designation of Senator Stone as chairman. Mr. Simmons is entitled to the place by seniority. The controversy threatens to lose much of the benefit gained by the Democrats through gaining possession of the Senate.

A very effective Thanksgiving service was held yesterday at Leahi Home. Short addresses were made by C. J. Day and Frank Cooke. Two lady visitors from Australia volunteered their services in music and an address and were very entertaining, for which those in charge of the meeting are very thankful. Mrs. Bowen also took a prominent part in the services.

The doll sale which was conducted under the auspices of the Golden Circle Sewing Club last Saturday proved to be a most successful one, the total receipts being over one hundred and twenty-five dollars. Ticket number fifty-five, which was held by Mrs. John Walker, won the big doll.

STEVEN SEEKS HEALTH ON COAST

Following a serious illness which terminated in partial paralysis, O. A. Steven, a representative of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association in the Philippines, where for some time past he has served in the capacity of labor recruiting agent, is a passenger in the Japanese liner Tenyo Maru, en route to the mainland, in search of health.

Mr. Steven was stricken while on the China coast. For a time his condition was deemed serious. He was ordered to return to the mainland, and during the stay of the Tenyo Maru at this port has been given opportunity to confer with heads of the planters' labor bureau.

Steven and Pinkham have been operating in the central and southern Philippines with considerable success, judging from the steady stream of little brown brothers that finds its way to Hawaii with every steamer from the Orient.

Mr. Steven's present intention is to proceed to British Columbia and the northwest to spend the greater part of the winter.

Arrangements are under way to begin the hearing of the next and final Mahuka site hearing in Federal Court on December 2. The counsel for the owners and for the government hope to complete the case by the holidays.
